

Earns Advanced Certification from The International Association of Eating Disorders Professionals Foundation

recently earned the Certified Eating Disorder Specialist designation from the International Association of Eating Disorders Professionals (iaedp) Foundation, after completing a rigorous set of criteria for the evaluation of education, training, knowledge and experience.

joins an elite group of professionals committed to excellence in the treatment of eating disorders with this certification. "Certification as an iaedp eating disorder specialist is evidence that both the professional and iaedp are diligent in seeking advancement in training, education, research and competency to address the complexities involved in the treatment of eating disorders," says Tammy Beasley, RDN, CEDRD, CSSD, Former Director of iaedp Certification Committee.

currently serves as . This certification allows to offer clients and patients the assurance and confidence that the highest standards of care will be provided throughout all stages of treatment.

Established in 1985, iaedp (<http://www.iaedp.com>) provides educational programs and training standards for eating disorder specialists and other medical professionals caring for those suffering from the full spectrum of disordered eating. The group offers the most widely respected certification process for specializing in eating disorder treatment.
