

Susie Lomelino
slomelino@calisepartners.com
214-269-2092

iaedp Announces Three Distinctive Scholarships for the 29th Annual iaedp Symposium

Pekin, IL (Oct. 30, 2014) – The International Association of Eating Disorders Professionals (iaedp) Foundation proudly announces three scholarship opportunities for the 2015 iaedp Symposium, taking place on March 19 - 22 at the Pointe Hilton Tapatio Cliffs Resort in Phoenix.

Intended for first-time attendees or iaedp members with financial hardship, scholarships are awarded from December 8, 2014 through January 9, 2015. The Financial Aid Scholarships cover a majority of the symposium registration fees while the Dick Wilson Scholarship Fund covers the cost of one full symposium registration. The Christian Hartline Scholarship covers all registration fees and includes a $1,000 check toward transportation and hotel expenses.

Members interested in applying for scholarships can apply and submit online. Awards are provided based on answers to the application questions. To review the application or to reply, go to <http://survey.constantcontact.com/survey/a07e68tzskzh5oanl53/a01ksho7fhknc/greeting>.

“The scholarships help more members experience the Symposium,” said Bonnie Harken, Managing Director at The iaedp Foundation. “Like in the past, the 2015 Symposium will be a unique opportunity to learn and explore the field of eating disorder treatment and research. But even more importantly, some of the most noted eating disorder experts in the world are there to share their own knowledge and experience.”

The 2015 Symposium offers four days of training sessions and instructive presentations. Plus, due to its extreme popularity, iaedp will once again offer its precertification courses onsite at the Symposium. Early registration is still available through January 15, 2015.

About The iaedp Foundation

Established in 1985, iaedp (<http://www.iaedp.com>) provides educational programs and training standards for eating disorder specialists and other medical professionals caring for those suffering from the full spectrum of disordered eating. The group offers a highly respected certification process for specializing in eating disorder treatment.