Idyllic Weather Only Part of Package for iaedp’s Eating Disorder Treatment Conference

As Bad Weather Buries the Country, Plan for Professional Growth in Phoenix

PEKIN, IL (February 18, 2014) – The International Association of Eating Disorders Professionals, or iaedp, will hold its 29th annual Symposium at the Pointe Hilton Tapatio Cliffs Resort. Set on a mountain vista on beautifully landscaped grounds and downtown Phoenix just minutes away, the 2015 Symposium is scheduled for March 18 – 22.

“Our mission each year is to present the leading authorities in research and treatment of eating disorders and co-occurring addictions,” said Bonnie Harken, Managing Director at The iaedp Foundation. “We identify a location that will serve to inspire our members as they focus on the latest research and innovative results in our field – with the critical intent to educate about the best possible treatment of eating disorders for those who suffer from the addictive disease.”

Attendants of the conference can choose from an extensive selection of multi-discipline oriented, treatment-focused workshops to match their information and learning needs to the everyday challenges of working with patients. With three prominent keynote presentations and excellent networking opportunities among peers, key professional objectives can be met in beautiful Phoenix – where bad weather and frigid temps become a distant memory.

Established in 1985, iaedp (<http://www.iaedp.com>) provides educational programs and training standards for eating disorder specialists and other medical professionals caring for those suffering from the full spectrum of disordered eating. The group offers the most widely respected certification process for specializing in eating disorder treatment.
