certification@iaedp.com

Dear iaedp™ Equivalency Certification Applicant,

Welcome! You have now begun the process of becoming a Certified Eating Disorders Specialist (CEDs), Certified Eating Disorders Registered Dietitian (CEDRD), Certified Eating Disorders Registered Nurse (CEDRN), or Certified Eating Disorders Creative Arts Therapist (CEDCAT). First established in 2002 to enhance the education of multidisciplinary professionals, the iaedp™

Certification has now become the only internationally-recognized credential signifying competence in treating feeding and eating disorders. We respect and value that you have chosen to pursue your iaedp™ Certification and to join the ranks of other distinguished professionals.

This iaedp™ Equivalency Certification application is for professionals with long-standing expertise in the field of feeding and eating disorders per the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, Fifth Edition (DSM-5). Please note that at least seven years and 10,000 hours of experience in this field are prerequisites to qualify for this equivalency path. THIS ROUTE WILL BE DISCONTINUED AS OF DECEMBER 31, 2020, at 11:59pm. All applications that have not clearly met these requirements before this date must adhere to the Traditional path.

To apply for the CEDs, CEDRD, CEDRN, or CEDCAT certification using this iaedp™ Equivalency Certification application, first choose your designation:

- The CEDs is for a Master's level therapist or counselor, Doctor of Philosophy (PhD), Doctor of Psychology (PsyD), Doctor of Behavioral Health (DBH) Doctor of Medicine (MD), Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine (DO), Naturopathic Doctor (ND), Physician Assistant (PA), and/or Nurse Practitioner (NP).
- The CEDRD is for a Registered Dietitian (RD)/Registered Dietitian Nutritionist (RDN).
- The CEDRN is for a Registered Nurse (RN), minimum of Bachelor's Degree.
- The CEDCAT is for a Music, Art, Recreation, or Dance/Movement Therapist (CAT).

Next, verify that you have practiced a minimum of seven years and have at least 10,000 hours of experience in the field of feeding and eating disorders. These experience hours only count after your formal qualification, thus:

- For master's level therapists, after your state licensure or registration number was acquired, post-graduation.
- For psychologists, after your American Psychological Association accredited internship began.
- For RD/RDNs, after you were registered through CDR.
- For medical providers, after your state-issued licensure was acquired.
- For RNs, after your state-issued licensure was acquired.
- For CATs, after you received your certificate to practice issued by the appropriate Certification Board (Certification Board for Music Therapists [CBMT], Art Therapy Credentials Board [ATCB]; National Council for Therapeutic Recreation Certification [NCTRC] or Dance Movement Therapy Certification Board [DMTCB]).

Finally, here are five of the most frequently asked questions about this iaedp™ Equivalency Certification process and the answers you'll want to know.

1. Question: Do seven years of treating people with eating disorders in a private practice setting typically fulfill the 10,000-minimum-hour requirement?

Answer: It depends. Hours are based on actual work within the eating disorders field, therefore if someone has a lower quantity of patient cases and other work within the field is they will need more than 7 years to reach the 10,000 hours

2. Question: What counts as having “directly supervised others.”

Answer: This can depend on both your discipline and duration licensed, credentialed, or certified. Ideally, “directly supervising others” means leading the supervision of a treatment team or other practitioners (e.g. a licensed therapist or psychiatrist commonly supervises treatment teams or other practitioners). In reality, not all disciplines typically lead supervisions, but your role may qualify as “directly supervising” (e.g. a nurse who does not lead the treatment team but actively provides medical leadership and supervision within the team may suffice). Include everything you feel is pertinent to satisfying this requirement in your application. Also, the Supervision Equivalency hours can begin accruing once a practitioner has received their full, permanently renewable license, credential, or certification (titles vary by discipline and jurisdiction); for example, a California MFT Associate cannot begin to accrue their Supervision Equivalency hours until they are licensed as an MFT. This can delay eligibility for the iaedp™ Equivalency Certification.

3. Question: Do the five years required for providing supervision need to be consecutive.

Answer: No, they do not.

4. Question: What if I have experience in more than the four categories required to satisfy the Behavioral Skills, Core Curriculum, and Case Study Equivalencies?

Answer: Share anything and everything that seems relevant, no matter how much you did or how long ago it was. Your iaedp™ Equivalency application needs to substantiate your exceptional dedication to the field of feeding and eating disorders and also verify that the iaedp™ Traditional Application is not a better route for you.

5. Question: What if I can't remember exact information, titles, or dates?

Answer: Do your best, and let us know when something is approximate. We, the reviewers, recognize that practitioners with long careers may not have maintained older records.

To qualify for receiving your CEDS/RD/RN/CAT through the iaedp™ Equivalency Certification route, you must be able to demonstrate eating disorders proficiency and expertise through a range of requirements.
